Problem

Why is it that we can be surrounded by people willing to meet up with others but not have any idea that they’re there? 1 in 3 college students have reported prolonged periods of depression, and 30% reported feeling frequently overwhelmed. College is a community of mentors and peers with whom we study, eat, and go to class, yet college students often feel alone and isolated.

Solution

Genie takes away that loneliness. Genie is an app that provides a safe, crowdsourced platform that finds people in the same location based on common interest and mutual benefit. Have a homework set due in an hour and stuck on a line of code? Holler for help on Genie. Stuck in a parking lot and need to jumpstart your car? Holler for help on Genie. Feeling blue and general want to chat or grab a study break with someone? Holler on Genie. People in close proximity will see your request and come to your aid. Everyone’s a genie, they just don’t know it yet.
